Master of Business Administration

Time waits for no one — and neither does the competitive world of business. That’s why a Master of Business Administration (MBA) at University of Phoenix can be completed in as little as 18 months. You’ll develop the skills to make important business decisions. And, best of all, you’ll take just one 6-week course at a time on the path to your degree, enabling you to maintain work-life balance.

In the MBA program, you’ll learn to:

- Identify and solve problems to make better business decisions
- Manage, develop and motivate employees to meet changing organizational needs
- Leverage technology in a global environment to create a competitive edge
- Evaluate risks and develop plans to minimize their impact
- Develop awareness of your personal values and how they affect decision making
- Align business decisions with your organization’s values

Your MBA can stand on its own, or it can be combined with a Master of Health Administration.

Learning outcomes

Along with the knowledge and skills related to the University Learning Goals, graduates should gain program-specific knowledge, skills and abilities. Each college or school creates a set of Program Student Learning Outcomes (PSLOs) to describe the knowledge, skills or attitudes students will possess upon completion of the program of study. By the time you complete your MBA, you should be able to perform these learning outcomes.

Program accreditation

The MBA has been reaffirmed for accreditation until 2027 by the Accreditation Council for Business Schools and Programs (ACBSP), ensuring the quality of your education.

What does that mean in real life? ACBSP-accredited business programs are committed to quality standards. The quality of the program is continuously benchmarked against specific criteria that prepare students for their industry of choice. Accreditation occurs on a 10-year cycle with regular quality reviews.
