Objectives
With an emerging proportion of older adults in our society there is a growing market for aging services which are fueled by products and services for elders as well as for adults compromised by severe injuries or disabilities. The long term care certificate focuses on increasing the knowledge and skills essential to work with these various populations. Courses focus on aging, legal issues and perspectives, programs and services, as well as alternative living environments for these populations.

Requirements and Prerequisites
Long Term Care Certificate (Undergraduate) requires a minimum of 18 credits, which may come from a combination of required and elective courses.
